Notes from the Center

January 21, 2011 ICLRU Lecture — Alumni Hall

Speaker, Tracy Miller, from “Timeless Faces of Aviation.”

The objective of “Timeless Faces of Aviation,” a major video history project of the Experimental Aviation & Aeronautics AirVenture Museum, is to assure that the first person oral histories of aviation’s development are preserved for future generations of family members, teachers, students, historians and others. Over the last 10 years they have recorded interviews with many people associated with aviation.

Tracy will show some of the interviews and explain how the program works.

You will be fascinated seeing these interviews with pilots, engineers, and bombardiers – men and women who won the war and made aviation an everyday word. The interviews will be archived in the Library of Congress.

Things To Do
